Many acts of heroism take place in the bowels of the earth that go unrecorded, which, if heralded to the world, would endow the heroes with undying fame, but their modesty and matter of fact way of looking at these thing forbid them from boasting or relating these incident, and it is only occasionally that they become known. We happened to get into a casual conversation the other evening with Jack Kermeen, foreman at the Hamburg, one of the best miners on the lode, and he innocently allowed us to lead him along until we had gathered a [Eureka Sentinel.]

Jack rushed to the found him insensible and saw at once that it was the cause of foul air. and it flashed across his mind that there were more miners in the bottom of that drift. To rush to another portion of the mine and summon assistance, grab a rope, hurry back and start down the winze ladder, was but the work of a minute. Most men would have hesitated before venturing into the dense carbonic gas, to breathe which was almost certain death, but he had but one thought, and that was to rescue the three men in the winze. Reaching the bottom he found then him along until we had gathered a half dozen instances of his personal experiences and courage that would do honor to the bravest soldier that ever age of him, and wonder what there is age of him, and wonder what there is in the happenings worthy of embalm-ing in print, but we will leave that to the reader's judgement. Some two weeks ago he had just gone down on the 450-foot level of the mine, on his usual round of inspection, when his at-tention was called to a man crawling out of en 80 foot down winns, who fell lying in a stupor and insensible. He attached the rope to the body of one of them, sang out to the miners who had gathered at the mouth of the winze to haul away, which they did with a will, and soon landed him on top. The operation was repeated with the other two, and Jack dizzy and faint climbed out, his temples throbbing with pain, and very nearly overcoming his efforts, The men fortunately recovered, after course of medical treatment, as also

Some time ago Jack was working in the Atlas mine putting in the blast in the bottom of a 90 foot winze, in company with a brother miner. Everything being ready to fire it, his companion lit the fire, and both started up the ladder, Jack ahead. He had climbed about 20 feet when his partner shouted that he was about to faint. Without a moments hesitation, Jack skipped back, and, just as the man relaxed his hold, succeeded in grabbing a death-grip to his shirt. It was a fearfully heavy burden, the man weighing 200 pounds; but, putting forth all his muscular energies, he slowly climbed the ladder, round by round, the insensible miner embarrassing his progress by his contortions. It was almost certaid death unless he suceeeded in getting out of reach of the explosion, and his progress seemed to be painfully slow; but he hung on, and was within ten feet of the top before the blast went off, a sufficient ance to place him and his load ou of harm's way. Half a dozen rounds more brought him to the surface of the drift, where depositing the man he fell exhausted beside him. The memory of that retreat from a horrible fate still lingers, and Jack counts on the man he rescued as one of his most de-voted friends. We might multiply voted friends. We might multiply instances of his experiences, but the two related above are sufficient to show the perils that these brave men encounter, and the danger that they face so stoically every time they go down into the depth of the earth. Still 'the miners, like the jolly tar at sea during the storm, pity those whose occupations keep them continually on the surface.

A LOAFERS' PARADISE.—The Ohio State Journal publishes a letter from Gen. Comley, in which Honolulu is sketched with a free-and-easy hand, as a loafers' paradise. The natives, he writes, are the most careless, improvi-dent people in the world. They have no Winter to lay by for—even the proverbial rainy day needs nothing there; so they dance and sing, and deck themselves with garlands all day long. Men go here with great garlands of the loveliest flowers and green leaves hanging in festoons around the neck and shoulders, down the body, around the hat, everywhere. Those men are not fops and loafers of the race, but hard-working fellows—the herdsman, hard-working fellows—the herdsman, the hackman, even the draymen go atout adorned in the most exquisite taste, with flowers and leaves wreathed into forms of beauty which come to an Ametican like a revelation, in art. They have no wealth—nothing that would satisfy an American—but they are always laughing, singing, playing jewsharps or making floral wreaths. The Hawsiian knews that there will never be a Winter's day to provide for, and that it will always be the same, yesterday, to-day, and forever.

Another cure for diptheria is going the rounds of the press, one that is easily tried, and harmless if it does not gives relief. It is said to be used with great success by Dr. Field of England, who puts a teespoonful of England, who puts a teespoonful of brimstone in a wineglass of water and stirs it with his finger instead of a spoon, as sulphur does not readily dissolve with water. When it is well mixed he gives it as a gargle, and in ten minutes the patient is out of danger. He recommends the swallowing of the gargle. In extreme cases, when the fungus is too near closing to allow of gargling, he blows the sulphur through a quill in the throat, and after the fungus shrinks he uses the gargle. It is said he has never lost a patient under this treatment.

The New Pope.

The Catholic world has but led the vanguard of the populous states of Europe and America, in that deep interest which has been felt as to who should succeed Pope Pio Nono. It was not simply the man, but the class and principle of which he is the exponent. The Conclave of Cardinals been in session for several days. Of course they practically ignored the infallibility doctrine and arrayed them- fore the final slate is made up. selves in factions. The question of the nationality of the incoming pontiff was very soon decided in favor of Italy. But the faction in the Church Conservative or Ultramontane was one over which there was as careful finesse, as close calculation and planing as in a National Political Convention. Monday the Conclave met and continued in secret session until yesterday afternoon. The smoke from the burning ballots at 12:30 led the crowd to believe that no result had been attained, but at 1:15 P. M Cardinal Cateroni appeared in the grand gallery of the Vatican Basilica and announced in the customary formula Cardinal Pecci's succession to the Papacy. The vast throng lustily cheered him, and he entoned the "Benedice" and pronounced a benediction. The Holy Father was elected by the method known as "By Adoration." Pecci's election means a defeat to Ultramontane Catholics who, feel purious at the result of the election. This result further means the expression of the growth of a more liberal spirit in the Catholic Church. Gradually the severities of religious faith are being molified by the various influences exerted by advancing knowledge and civilization. The days of the Hobenstaufens and of Gregory VII have rassed; the Guelfs and Ghiberlines hav. a assumed other names and manifest the ir antagonisms in widely different wa The Catholic faith, once the leading with, has suffered a check in its influence by reason of the radiical grounds taken by the Ultramontanists. Yesterday's election marks the initiatory step to a u era of more enlightened progress. The result is indeed gratifying, for the le wen of liberalism infused into that church, which numbers its millions of believers, by Wiseman, Dollinger and others, had scarcely been presunted during the admirable yet Ultramentane regime of the deceased Pope to have attained a controlling influence. The unsatisfactory relations existing between the late King of Italy and Chancellor Bismarck of Prusia are, by the election of Pecci, greatly ameliorated, and it is very probable that there will be no excommunication of King Humbert, no embittered controver-

The general opinion is, that for learning, tact, energy, dignity, amiability, real moral worth and shoere piety, the Sacred Collage could not find a more deserving Pope than Cardinal Pecci. Ah Chucy Missing and "No Sabo" in His Place-Chief Breen and Lawyer Cowie Arrested-Barlow's Gallant of-fer of a "Swap"—Cowie and Breen Yesterday the Gazette gave an account of the exploits of a Celestial Danite called Ah Chuey, and stated that he had in some mysterious way been allowed to escape from custody. unteered his services to bring Ah one villain committed to their care. Chuey to Reno, and arrived accompanied L. T. Cowie, a lawyer of Comfrom time to time speke to Justice Richardson about the examination of Ah Chuey. His Honor had, however, received a telegram from Justice Moses of Virginia which caused him to feel as though he had plenty of time, A. K. Lamb, Sheriff, had also received a dispatch from Stephens and Kirkpatrick, setting forth their suspicion that a swap had been made and advising the holding of this Chinaman. On Tuesday the Rover case and Attorney Cain's absence made a good excuse for Judge R., who was again requested to hold the examination so that he (Breen) might go home. Our readers will understand that he might have gone the day before had he so elected. On Tuesday night Officer Bradley and District Attorney Drake came down to examine into the matter, and yesterday morning Bradley, who arrested the real Ah Chuey, examined THE CELESTIAL DELIVERED BY BREEN.

Bradley did not need but one look when he said "Looks about as much like 'Chu' as I do. That's a clear cut job," When this was known, tele- foul murder: grams were sent to Virginia for Simpson, the guardian of Chinatown, who knew Ah Chuey, and warrants were ordered out for Chief Breen, and L. T. Cowie. The arrival of these warrants and witnesses was necessary before anything could be done, and the with him not to use it, and while so many level. grams were sent to Virginia for Simpcase was postponed until 9 o'clock last pleading was murde night.

These actions gave "Sweet William" the impression that these nabobs were trying to fosh him, so he remembered faithfully what was said in his hearing.

At nine o'clock last night

THE TRIAL came on, and the substitute was brought into court. Officers Simpson and Bradley swore plainly and con clusively that the prisoner was not Ah Chuey. Lawyer Cowie, while osten-sibly defending the prisoner, did not seem happy at the prospect of his vindication, and tried to wither District Attorney Cain with sarcasm, Cain survived the gale, however, and upo his motion the Chinaman was dismissed. Attorney Drake, however, produced another warrant and detained the Celestial for further use in

The Virginia Chronicle arrived dur ing the trial, and its specific charge created considerable interest and made ing for some time at the puzzling Messra. Breen and Cowje still more daubs, said: "heap kille Chinaman." anxious for a careful showing upon extion. The warrants against Chief Breen and his legal associate ere endorsed and at the close of the receedings these gentlemen were in atody of Officer Simpson.

We interviewed Cowie, Breen and the officers, but could find no intelli-understand that they were really on trial instead of the Chinaman, and consequently were very chary in regard to their statements of the affair, The officers, Bradley and Simpson, admitted that it was a clear case of "awap," and although they were sorry that the matter was thrust npon them they still realized that their testimony was very severe on the Chief. They would not shrink from giving the truth, whether it hurt Breen or not, because he had not acted right in the matter. Breen stated to us that he took the train at Gold Hill, while Cowie said that he started from Virknown[froms a very interesting chapter in police history. On Monday last Chief Breen of Virginia City voiuntered his services.

District Attorney Drake stated last evening to a Gazette reporter that the stock proclivities. The Chinaman case looked very dark at present, but was lodged in jail by Breen, who, in he hoped that the Chief might be able stead of returning home as he had our to explain. Mr. Cowie, to use a compermission to do, remained over, and mon phrase, donned a great many "airs" when before Justice Richardson, and, had it not been for a parting shot from Beemer, would have gone away with the impression that he owned Washoe county. We are disposed, however, to excuse the gentleman's bearing on consideration of the circumstances surrounding the case.

> We are authorized by "Sweet William" to state that if anybody wants to trade for more Chinamen, his office will be open for them. He will not exact $1600 apiece for them, but will always object to any Metropolitan police transacting the business without first holding consultation with him.

If the charges against Cowie and Breen are sustained, they should be punished to the extent of the law ..

In the District Court to-day the case of M. Nathan vs. the C. P. R. R. was called, and nonsuited on the grounds that the General Superintendent of this Division had not been notified that Mr. Nathan had purchased the time-check of his (Nathan's) debter.

Charles Lamb tells his sad expericarries Lamb tells has sad experience as a warning to young men, in the fellowing language: "The waters have gone over me. But out of the black depths, could I be heard, I would cry out to all those who have set a foot in the perilous flood. Could the youth, to whom the flavor of the first wine is delicious as the opening first wine is delicious as the opening scenes of life, or the entering upon some newly discovered paradise, look into my desolation and be made to understand what a dreamy thing it is, when he shall feel himself going down a precipice with open eyes and a passive will; to see his destruction and have no power to stop it, and yet feel it all the way emanating from himself, to see all godliness emptied out of him, and yet not be able to forget a time when it was otherwise; to bear them the anitanus spectacle of his own irst wine is delicious as the opening him, and yet not be able to forget a time when it was otherwise; to bear about the piteous spectacle of his own ruin; could he see my fevered eye, feverish with the last night's drinking, and feverishly looking fer to-night's repetition of the folly, could he but feel the body of the death out of which I cry hourly with feebler outcry to be delivered, it were enough to make him dash the sparkling beverage make him dash the sparkling beverage to the earth, in all the pride of its mantling temptation,"

The man with the ulster occupies an equivocal position in society, but his legs are warm, and he is raised high above the petty annoyances of ordinary humanity. He can wear his old trousers every day, and he doesn't care if there is a patch on the knee and the whole rear platform is worn off.—Puck.
